C. & O. EMBARGO STOPS COAL MINES

Transportation Difficulties Continue to Hamper Coal Supply.

The C. & O. last week put an embargo on coal shipments west, and this almost stopped operations in the Big Sandy valley. The Cincinnati Enquirer of Tuesday says:

Modification of the coal embargo on the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad was announced Monday night, but it was a modification which tightened the embargo instead of lifting it. As a result, no coal is to be loaded at the mines for west-bound shipment on the C. & O. system, and no new coal will be moved west of Ashland. The embargo was announced from the office of Walter L. Booth, superintendent of transportation of the C. & O. lines at Richmond, Virginia, and became effective at the mines Monday morning.

R. A. Colter of the Cincinnati Coal Exchange said that he was informed that the C. & O. has a congestion amounting to 13,000 cars of coal west-bound for Cincinnati and points beyond which must be cleared up before new coal can be loaded at the mines for west-bound shipment.

It is asserted that it will require fully a week to clear up this old coal congestion before the embargo can be lifted. C. & O. officials announce that they would devote all their energies to relieving the congestion.

The modified embargo is said to be the direct result of the appeal of the New River Operators' Association to the Interstate Commerce Commission for relief.

The New River operators complained of discrimination because, they alleged, C. & O. officials were permitting coal from the Kanawha districts to be moved when they refused to take coal loaded in the New River district for west-bound shipment. The Interstate Commerce Commission held that C. & O. officials must treat all coal districts on their lines alike. As a result coal all along the line from Handley to Ashland was embargoed.

B. & O. Embargo Lifted.

Notice was issued by officials of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad Wednesday that the embargo on coal at Toledo was canceled, and coal from mines of Kentucky and West Virginia was allowed to move freely to the lake port for loading in bunkers and barges.

The embargo was caused by congestion due to inspections of cars waiting to be unloaded at the mechanical dumpers at the lakeside.

Delays were occasioned by inspectors condemning coal cars which did not come up to the standard and ordering them returned to sidings. These cars have about been cleaned up and movements can be received as usual, it is announced.

The embargo on the Chesapeake & Ohio system showed no change Wednesday, and operators said they did not look for any relief until next week.

RUM RUNNERS FEAR LEAD, COLLINS TELLS DRY CHIEF

Washington, Oct. 19.—Bootlegging is decreasing in Kentucky because law-breakers are afraid of being shot or serving jail terms, Sam Collins, prohibition director for Kentucky, has reported to Commissioner Haynes in explanation of a decided drop in the number of fines and the amount of taxes assessed for the last few months.

In July, fines and taxes amounted to $285,000, and in August dropped to $200,000. Last month the total was only $57,000. Since the first of the year, $2,288,000 has been assessed as fines and taxes.

According to Mr. Collins, dangers encountered in drinking bootleg whiskey also have had an effect upon the demand.

He lived at Webbville until about six years ago when he went to Huntington to make his home with his son. He was a member of the Odd Fellows lodge.

NO BIDDERS FOR STREET PAVING

The city of Pikeville has twice advertised for bidders on a lot of street paving that is needed in that progressive place. The last date for opening bids was last Monday and there were no bids to open.

This is not because there are no contractors wanting work, for there are scores of them bidding on every job offered by the state, by counties and by railroads and other corporations. The experience of contractors in doing street paving in some other towns in Kentucky has put this class of work on the black list.

The laws of Kentucky are not what they should be in regard to paving. This fact is a hardship, both on towns and contractors. Ohio, West Virginia, and many other states have laws that enable towns to go ahead with their paving in a business-like way that appeals to contractors and enables them to get pay for their work without fighting for it. Under these conditions there are plenty of bidders, with the competition that is desirable. The Kentucky Court of Appeals has shown no disposition to permit any contractor to be beaten out of his pay for work done, but contractors do not want to take work that requires litigation to collect for it.

In Pikeville it is said many citizens now propose to pay cash in full for the work when done, but unless the money is deposited in advance the contractors are skeptical. The fact has leaked out that signed contracts to pay cash have been repudiated elsewhere and contractors will no longer bite at this plan.

Special Car Takes Canadian Bankers to Magoffin Fields

Monday's Ashland Independent says:—Owning 40,000 acres of virgin forest, and mining and operating and financing the Big Sandy & Kentucky River Railroad Company, the Royal Bank of Canada is sending special inspection agents up the Sandy valley today to look over this vast field which has now been in operation a little over a year.

The special car bearing these men arrived in Ashland today and was to continue its journey at 3:30 up the Big Sandy valley. Sir Herbert Holt, chairman of the board of directors of the Royal Bank of Canada, C. F. Neil, general manager of the bank, and S. G. Dobson, general inspector of the bank, are the three representatives who have been sent to look after this field which represents a several million dollar investment.

W. H. Dawkins, Lou Davis, Captain Fletcher, W. E. Berger and Jack Fisher joined this party today to go with them on the trip of investigation. The party will be gone until Wednesday night or Thursday morning.

This is the first trip of Sir Herbert Holt and Mr. Neil to this part of the country, while Mr. Dobson has been here several times.

With the financing of the Royal Bank of Canada and under the general direction of the Dawkins Lumber Company this enormous field has been opened up and operations have been under way since a year last August. Under their directions the Big Sandy & Kentucky River Railroad was constructed forming an outlet for the Magoffin and Breachitt fields. Although a single track road this line tops one of the most important and wealthy sections of eastern Kentucky, passing through the great oil fields and coal area and the agricultural districts of the county. This is the only railroad in Magoffin county. The road extends from Dawkins on the C. & O. to the logging camp, Betts Mann Camp on the Quicksand river. Along the road lies the most important towns and villages of the region which have sprung into prominence since the boom. It is up this road that the party will travel.

An Eastern Star Home for disabled members of the organization will be the chief project to be acted upon at the twelfth annual meeting of the Grand Chapter of Kentucky, Order of Eastern Star, in Louisville this week. The location for the home has been selected. Mrs. Annie Maude McAuley, Dawson Springs, worthy grand matron, approves of this undertaking, pointing out that it will be one of the most worthy projects that the organization has ever undertaken. According to Mrs. McAuley the home will cost approximately $250,000.

The convention will donate $1,000 to the building of the new Masonic Widows and Orphans' Home.

Mrs. Langley's $2000.00 Diamond Brooch Found

A jeweler in Louisville reported to the police that a negro waiter had tried to sell him a diamond brooch, and the pin was recovered. The waiter claimed to have found it and the proprietor of the restaurant where he worked confirmed the story. The proprietor said the waiter took the brooch to him, but he thought it was imitation settings and gave it back to the negro. Congressman Langley and wife had eaten at the restaurant just before the brooch was found.

Right of Way for Mayo Trail Condemned

In condemnation proceedings in county court Tobe Wagner, of Georges creek, was given a verdict of $300. This case involves right of way for the Mayo Trail through his farm. Commissioners placed damages at $350, the estimated cost of moving fences, etc. Wagner claimed damages to the extent of several times that amount, but the attorneys for the county presented proof to show that the Mayo Trail would add largely to the value of the farm.

Pikeville Club Sends Girl to Hospital

Pikeville, Ky., Oct. 21.—The Pikeville Rotary Club recently made arrangements with a hospital at Louisville to give surgical treatment in little Miss Eloise White, who was suffering with crippled feet. Eloise is the bright four year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Golden White of the Pike County News. In accordance with the plans of the club, Mr. White left for the Louisville hospital with his daughter Tuesday morning and it is expected that she will be greatly benefited while there.

The club through its institution of a committee on crippled children has opened up a field of noble service. A service which alone is sufficient to give the club a permanent hold on the hearts and lives of the people of Pike county.

The Rotary Club at its meeting last week appointed a committee on a suitable slogan for Pikeville, one which will set forth some of its advantages as to location, beauty, etc. Will Call and Homer Tate were appointed a committee to receive slogans. The entire club will decide upon the winner.

Slogans must not contain more than six words and be in hands of committee before noon November 2, 1922.

Each contestant is limited to one slogan. The winner will be awarded $25 in gold.

Fire Destroys Home of Taylor Bowe

The home of Taylor Bowe, near the mouth of Three Mile, this county, was destroyed by fire a few days ago. Nothing was saved, as all the members of the family were away from home at the time. The fire occurred in the day time.

Neighbors gave the family shelter and aid of various kinds and a number of Louisa people sent contributions through Mrs. Sam See.

THE NEW STATE NORMAL SCHOOL

No date yet has been announced for the next meeting of the State Normal School Commission to select a site for the new eastern Kentucky school. It is expected that the chairman, Judge O'Rear, will call a meeting as soon as all members can be present.

Nothing new has developed in the situation. Louisville still believes she is the logical town for the school and her case has been presented as well as possible. Her citizens are hopeful that the commission may see the situation in the right light when the time for choosing finally comes.

As stated heretofore, Louisa can get a large amount of money from New York for this school. This is a consideration that means the difference between a small struggling school and a large and flourishing institution. It is a point that the commission can not ignore. Proper location and large gifts certainly are the chief points in such a case.

MY VISION.

As I look abroad upon the land,
I behold my fellow man,
Some are bowed by grief and tears,
Some are bowed by the weight of years,
Some are bowed by toil and work,
This is the class that will not shrink,
From the task assigned by God or man,
In this or any other age or land,
This is the class that stood by the flag,
Through every trying scene;
Though their share of the spoils
Has always been meager and mean,
This is the class for whom prayer was said,
Beneath many a roof and dome,
This is the class for whom tears were shed,
When the news came home they were dead.

This is the class that faced the shot and shell,
Upon many a gory field;
This is the class that now must toil,
On farm, in mine and at factory wheel.

While reviewing the wrongs of my own native home,
From far over the sea,
There breaks in upon my reverie,
A disconsolate sound, desolate moan,
A wail of the helpless in despair
That will not down at the command
Of lords of the land.

Air or masters of the land,
O, America, America beware, beware
Which side thy sympathies share,
In this great struggle, awful strife,
For with nations it is life for life,
O, my country, if we must fight,
Let us ally ourselves with the right;
But may the hand now at the wheel,
Pilot us safely past rock and reef;
May he not give us woe but weal,
May we be saved from war's awful grief.

—W. S. Wallen, Prestonsburg, Ky.

The poem above was written in the Autumn of 1914 and published in the Mountain Journal for the month of December. The great war had just begun. The poem was written by Mr. Wallen, a student of History, Political Economy, and Sociology he could visualize many of the terrible results and consequences of a world war. He was not unmindful of the great responsibility of America to her fellow men. He notes many of her weaknesses but is always conscious of her strength, and pleads for right and justice. He knew on whose shoulders the awful curse of war would weigh heaviest. This plea like thousands of others failed to stay the cruel hand of Mars.

A VALUABLE DOG.

A young supply preacher stopped in the middle of his sermon with the state, "Where I am staying they have a litter of puppies. One of them got hold of the rest of my sermon and chewed it up. I must therefore stop here. Rise and receive the benediction." After the service a stranger offered the young man a $10 bill, saying, "I want one of those pups for my preacher at home."—Auburn Chapel Bell.

LANGLEY'S 'PORK' ENCOUNTERS SNAG

President Against $100,000,000 Omnibus Building Bill of Kentuckian.

Washington, Oct. 23.—Plans of Representative John W. Langley, Teach Kentucky District, who is chairman of the Public Buildings and Grounds Committee, for a $100,000,000 Omnibus buildings bill during the next session struck a snag today when it was stated emphatically that President Harding has his foot down on the proposition.

The President, it was learned at the White House, is of the opinion that the Government cannot embark on such an enterprise at this time and is confident that the cities and towns which would like to have new Federal buildings can wait until the condition of the Treasury is somewhat improved.

The attitude of the President on the proposed "pork-barrel" legislation became definitely known today when he gave tentative approval to the 1923 estimate for appropriations now being worked out by General Lord, the Director of the Budget. These estimates, it is understood, contain no provision for or mention of the proposed Omnibus Buildings bill.

Although Postmaster General Work has encouraged Mr. Langley in his plans for an Omnibus Building bill, other Administration leaders insist that such a measure at the coming session would be ill-advised if not suicidal in view of the Republican party's promises for an economical program.

Some of the Republican leaders, in fact, are criticizing the Kentuckian for sponsoring the bill at this time. They report that the suggestions of this legislation, which were recently put forth, have met with instant condemnation from many sources and express the opinion that Mr. Langley and his associates should put the "soft-pedal" on any further talk of the "pork-barrel" project.

If such legislation is forced through Congress it is now indicated that it will meet with a prompt veto at the White House. Because of the heavy drains on the Treasury for the necessary expenses of the Government, one of the Senate leaders declared that it will be absolutely necessary to kill all "pork-barrel" proposals.

Name of A. Hay Proposed For Representative

I hear that the Rev. A. Hay is going to announce himself for the office of State Representative for the counties of Elliott and Lawrence. I feel it a duty of mine to say that there is no man with whom the people can place more confidence. He will do his duty and it is needless to say anything about his good character, for his reputation throughout the entire territory he has upright men and men of power, ready to defend any fraud that might be said to besmirch his clean and upright name. He is a man that has fought crime from every standpoint and in this country he fought the moonshiners when it seemed hopeless for one to offer opposition. I know not what his platform is, but I feel it is made up from direct need of the people he offers to represent and not the interests of some particular group or faction.

(Adv.) WADE THOMPSON.

THE WEAR AND TEAR OF GOOD AND BAD ROADS

It is said some of those opposed to good roads in Harrison county use the argument that good roads wear the shoes off the horses' feet. This brilliant argument is met by the fact that bad roads wear the shoes off the farmers' feet, his wife's feet, his children's feet, the hired-man's feet, the clothes off their backs, the tires off the wagon's wheels, half the load off the wagon's bed, and all the religion off the driver. The only thing bad roads tighten is the mortgage on the farm.—Cynthiana Democrat.

Miss Anna Myrene Bronson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. H. Bronson, of Mr. Frederick Flannagan, son of R. R. Flannagan, of Huntington, were married in Greenup on May 3. They will live in Huntington where Mr. Flannagan is in the life insurance business. The Bronsons were former residents of Williamson, W. Va.

Save Gas and Thus Prolong the Supply

Consumers of natural gas cannot do better for themselves than to enter heartily into the crusade for conservation of that essential product of nature. It is not only conservation at the producing end that is necessary, but conservation all along the line of distribution and through the ultimate consumer.

For a long time producers of natural gas have recognized the importance of not wasting it either in production or distribution. They have spent enormous sums of money to employ the most scientific measures to prevent waste. They have had the co-operation of the United States Bureau of Mines in their efforts to conserve one of the most extensively used of nature's resources.

It has been established that not the extension of the use of natural gas to twelve million consumers but the waste of it by inefficiency and carelessness at the points of consumption is most responsible for the necessity more strictly to regulate the distribution and which has resulted in greater cost to the consumer.

The campaign now being conducted by the Natural Gas Association of America, and endorsed by the Bureau of Mines, is not designed to discourage the proper and economical use of natural gas but so to instruct the public that consumers may be equipped with proper appliances and with information of how to use them so as to eliminate waste and to get the most out of the gas they consume.

The distributing companies are interested in this reform, because waste threatens to diminish the supply and ultimately to end their distributing business. Consumers will be instructed in all the ways to practice economy. They will be told how to get the most good out of the gas they pay for and so to prolong the service. In perfection of consumption will be realized not only the greatest comfort and benefit from this wonderful natural product but insurance against discontinuance of service.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Frequent Headaches

"I suffered with chronic constipation that would bring on very severe headaches," says Mrs. Stephen H. Kincer, of R. F. D. 1, Cripple Creek, Va. "I tried different medicines and did not get relief. The headaches became very frequent. I heard of

OBITUARY

Andrew J. Webb was born in Lawrence county, Ky., March 24, 1842. Departed this life Sept. 23, 1922, aged 80 years, 5 months and 29 days. He was first married to Jane Thompson and to this union was born 6 children. After his first wife died he was married to Mary Childers, and to this union was born 11 children. He had 17 children, 55 grandchildren and 14 great grandchildren.

He was a man that was loved, honored and respected by his many friends. He was a member of Free masonry of the Lake Rice lodge at Blaine, Ky. Was also a charter member of the I. O. O. F. lodge at Fallsburg, Ky. He joined the Christian church when but a young man and in the year of 1891 joined the South Methodist church under the ministry of Rev. J. A. H. Barrett. He was converted some time before his death and asked his children and friends to meet him in heaven. His funeral was preached by Rev. R. H. Cassady and Roll Hutchison.

Weep not dear wife, children and friends as those without a hope. Uncle Andy has fought a good fight and finished his course. There is laid up for him a crown of righteousness which the Lord, the righteous judge, shall give him at that day and not to him only but to all them also that love his appearing. May the memory of uncle Andy Webb be to us a guiding star to heaven.

We have lost our dear friend, father and husband.

He has bid us all adieu; He has gone to live in heaven, And his form is lost to view. Oh, how dearly we loved him, Oh, how hard to give him up. But an angel came down for him And removed him from our flock. It is sad that one we cherish Should be taken from our home. But the joys that do not perish Live in memory alone.

ADAM HARMAN.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

Ninth District.

Tenth District.
For Congress—F. T. Hatcher.

A good many voters seem not to have learned that the law permitting voting by mail has been annulled. Voters must be at the polls in person.

"A public office is a public trust and not a private snap." No official has any right to use an office to discharge a private obligation of any kind, or to punish those he dislikes.

A "fact finding" commission has been appointed by the government to "investigate" the coal industry. Like all other similar commissions it will amount to nothing except the expenditure of $100,000 or more of tax money, making soft jobs for a bunch of fellows. There is entirely too much regulation now. The high price of coal this winter will be due to two things—the fool "regulations" of government boards, and the strikes.

The most important duty of any community is the proper education of its youth. This is best accomplished through good public schools, the only way by which the poor can have equal chances with the more prosperous classes. Our public schools should be good enough to send every young person, even the poorest, out into the world well enough equipped to make his or her way in useful lines of employment or business. Good schools are conducted only by clean, conscientious teachers, and directed only by officials of this type. It is up to the taxpayers to provide proper buildings, well lighted, thoroughly ventilated and modernly equipped. No material investment can be made that will equal this in returns.

SHORTAGE OF GRADUATE NURSES IN KENTUCKY

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 23.—One of the most serious difficulties that is hindering public health work in Kentucky at the present time is the shortage of graduate nurses especially trained in public health who are able to go out into the State as workers. Dr. P. E. Blackerby, director of the State Board of Health's Bureau of County Health Work, declared here today in an address to the graduating classes of the nurses at the Louisville hospitals.

"This is remarkable," Dr. Blackerby continued, "when one considers the fact that most of the nurses who are graduated from city hospitals are originally from smaller cities and towns out in the State. One would expect them to be anxious to go back among their own people to work, particularly when public health nursing offers a broader field for service than private nursing ever can do.

"It is surprising, too, that more country girls do not come to the city especially to obtain—ultimately—public health training. Such girls can come here and enter a hospital, receiving all the protection of a home, their board and room, and small salaries, and then, after they have taken a nurse's course, in a very short time equip themselves for work as public health nurses by taking a brief further course in public health work. Positions paying $1,800 a year as a minimum always are available."

PIKEVILLE

Young Pikeville Girl Victim of Dread Disease.

Miss Irene England, the young daughter of Mrs. R. B. England, died at her home here Monday of last week after an illness extending thru several months. Miss England was a member of one of our well known families, all of whom are girls noted for unusual intelligence and sociability. She was just entering into young womanhood and had but recently lost her father, who fell a victim of the same disease—tuberculosis.

The sadness of this premature death is made the more sad by the fact that her mother is lying within the very shadow of death.

The funeral was conducted at the Christian church Wednesday by Rev. E. L. Howerton of the First Baptist church, assisted by Rev. Dr. J. F. Record and Rev. W. E. Bennett. After the funeral the interment took place in a private cemetery on Cemetery Hill.

Young Woman Struck By Laundry Car.

Mrs. Florence Ramey was severely injured when she was struck by the laundry car on Cline street. The accident occurred a short distance above Hopkins' store and Mr. Shurtliff, who was driving the car at the time, immediately picked up Mrs. Ramey, carried her into the store building where she soon regained consciousness. Upon examination it was found that she was suffering from a broken collar bone and a number of minor injuries.

Mrs. Ramey was walking along the street at the time of the accident, and in passing some school children, stepped from the walk into the grass plot at the side. The car, which was in the act of passing a wagon, skidded and struck her, knocked her down and carried her several feet before it could be stopped. Mrs. Ramey is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elijah L. Francis, who live just across the river from West Pikeville.

Snake With Two Heads Found On Dry Creek.

The above heading is not merely a freak of delirium tremens, but is a plain statement of fact.

Mr. L. J. Riley of Greasy creek was in Pikeville for the purpose of securing licenses to exhibit a two-headed snake, and in order to convince the clerk of his sincerity of purpose he carried with him a box which contained the reptile.

The snake is some 13 inches long and about the size of a man's finger. It has two well-formed heads, with two sets of eyes and two tongues which dart freely from the two mouths.

Mr. Riley captured the snake on head of the Dry Fork of Greasy creek some time ago and carried it to his home where it has attracted wide attention.

The outstanding feature of the occasion, beside the laying of the stone, was the address delivered by Hon. H. H. Ramey, a brother of the fraternity who represented the lodge.

Mr. James W. Turner, who represented the Grand Master of Kentucky in laying the stone, assisted by Robt. Patrick of Paintsville, performed the ceremonies with great credit to the Grand Master and the Masonic fraternity of Kentucky.

Damadian Is Here

How To Play The Game

ORIENTAL RUGS

Huntington has ever had the pleasure of seeing

Damadian's visits to our store are occasions of rare interest to lovers of beautiful floor coverings. His collection invariably contains the most gorgeous and worthy examples of the rug-weaver's art, and is chosen with a fine appreciation of what is desirable and appropriate. By honest dealing, he has formed an ever growing clientele, who have faith both in his merchandise and methods. A rug expert from the cradle, he is a connoisseur by taste as well as experience, and his rugs gave undeniable evidence of this knowledge. His present showing is not only the largest, but by far the finest and most gorgeous he has ever displayed here or elsewhere.

There Are Important Considerations in the Buying of Oriental Rugs

Beauty is often only "skin deep" in Oriental Rugs. Seconds, "off-colors" and imperfect specimens are often represented as of first quality while the imitation is frequently sold as the genuine article. It is very important to "know your merchant," and quite necessary to have faith in his representations. Damadian's past visits have been enough to convince one of his integrity—and his future visits will serve the double purpose of selling more rugs, and of standing back of the ones already sold.

—and now the Prices

We do not believe that you could duplicate his values or surpass his quality if you were to search the entire Eastern markets. Present prices are without doubt much lower than you will again be offered. The new tariff will add much to the cost of all future importations. Now is the logical time to buy.

BIG

NOTICE!

To the Teachers and Taxpayers of Lawrence County:—I wish to say to the teachers that you will find the schedule printed below and from this you will be able to find out what is due you per month for teaching.

I have made off a pay roll, the only thing I had to make it from was the application you filed in asking for a school in Lawrence county. If there is a mistake in your pay, I am ready to correct same if the application blank demands more. I have been asked by several teachers if they were not entitled to $5 per month for summer school attended in 1921. The answer to the question is NO.

I want to say to each teacher in the county that the law has changed in promoting from the 8th grade to the 9th. There will be no more diploma examinations. This will be provided for by the County Board at its December meeting. All teachers having students who wish to take the examination will have done the county board a favor by reporting names and number of said children on or before December 1.

Teacher's Salary Schedule of Lawrence County, Ky., for School Year, 1922-23.

The salary schedule must be made by the County Board of Education and submitted in duplicate to the State Board of Education for approval by the State Board before teachers' contracts are made; and an approval schedule must be in effect before any payments are made to teachers.

No teacher can be legally employed who does not hold at the time of his employment a proper legal certificate which will not expire during the term for which he is employed.

The first 25c of the county school levy must be devoted exclusively to supplementing teachers' salaries, or as much of it as is needed to meet the salary schedule and the minimum salary law. In those counties where the 25c levy when added to the state per capita is not sufficient to meet the minimum salary law, the county board may pay a lower salary than the legal minimum.

Salaries in no county ought to be uniform, but the salary paid should have a direct relation to the teacher's preparation and experience.

This salary schedule must be kept posted in the county superintendent's office, and must be published in the local paper. It must be the basis and a part of the teacher's contract.

The salaries of all teachers employed by the county board of education, whether teaching in the elementary schools of the county or in county high schools, will be based on the following:

1. PREPARATION.

- 1a Graduates of the 8th grade, $60
- 1b Graduates of the 8th grade plus 1 year of high school, $61

- 1f Graduates of the 8th grade plus 1 year of normal, $62
- 1g Graduates of the 8th grade plus 2 years of normal, $64
- 1h Graduates of the 8th grade plus 3 years of normal, $65
- 1i Graduates of a 4 year standard high school plus 1 year of normal, $72
- 1j Graduates of a 4 year standard high school plus 2 years of normal, $76
- 1k Graduates of a 4 year standard high school plus 1 year of college or university, $72
- 1l Graduates of a 4 year standard high school plus 2 years of college or university, $76
- 1m Graduates of a 4 year standard high school plus 3 years of college or university, $88
- 1n Graduates of a 4 year standard high school plus 4 years of college or university, $92
- 1o Six weeks or more attendance at a summer school (1922) $5 per mo.

2. EXPERIENCE

- 2a Three years' successful experience, $5 per mo.
- 2b Six years' successful experience, $10 per mo.
- 2c Nine years' successful experience, $15 per mo.

3. ATTENDANCE

- 3a 60 per cent. of the census, $1 per mo.

ROOSTERS ARE BARRED FROM COUNTRY'S MAIL

Washington, Oct. 17.—The old barnyard rooster cannot travel by United States mail, but day old chicks still may be shipped from place to place, provided their journey may be completed within 72 hours, says a post-office department announcement. More over these chicks may be insured against loss but not against death.

Harmless live animals, rated as inoffensive and not requiring food or water in transit, may go by mail, along with baby terrapins, soft shell crabs, bloodworms and chameleons. Under new regulations live alligators up to 20 inches in length are the only live alligators Uncle Sam will handle.

GOOD SOAP FOR LESS THAN TWO CENTS A POUND

Make It At Home By This Easy Process—Takes Less Than 30 Minutes.

Nowadays, more and more women are doing as their mothers did and are making their own soap. If you have never tried it, you will be surprised to see how easy it is to make good soap, soft soap, hard soap or floating soap, just by using kitchen scraps and waste grease together with a can of Merry War Lye, the safe and sure soapmaker.

In the old days when soap was made by the boiling process it took nearly all day to make a kettle of soap. Now it is hardly any work at all—requires no boiling—takes less than 30 minutes. Saves you money and gives you all the pure, clean soap you need for kitchen, laundry and all household purposes.

You will find simple directions for soapmaking on the label of every can of Merry War Lye—also many other recipes such as how to make lye hominy, how to soften water, how to make clothes washing easy, how to brighten cooking utensils, etc.

Merry War Powdered Lye is also a wonderful cleaner and purifier for use about the home, barn, chicken house and outhouses. Comes in a convenient can with revolving sifting top that cannot come off, cannot get lost, recloses tightly and preserves contents. It is economical to buy and easy to use.

Ask your dealer for Merry War Lye—be sure you get "Merry War"—the lye that has made good for 33 years.

Girls basketball took a boom last Friday when they held their first scrimmage according to Coach Dorsett. The scrimmage was divided into fifteen minute periods and continued for three periods. Every girl present was used during the game. Several were used in two different places. Several good prospects showed up during the time. Basket shooting was better than should have been expected at this time. The squad showed little knowledge of guarding in the first period but after a short talk and some illustrations on defense, things went better.

A "skull" practice was held on Monday afternoon and all the faults and good points of the Friday scrimmage were explained. The main subject of the afternoon was the art of defense. The plan of defense that is to be used was explained very thoroughly, permitting questions to be asked on any particular point which was not clear.

An order has been placed for the equipment of ten girls who will make up the first team. The suits will consist of purple bloomers, orange jerseys trimmed in purple, heavy orange stockings and a good quality of basketball shoes.

The squad consists of eighteen enthusiastic girls who are looking forward to a hard contest on November 10 when the first games of the Class Tournament are to be played. In two weeks from this date they will meet the Kermitt High School girls.

A squad of twenty-six boys is working each Tuesday and Thursday in preparation to represent the Louisa High School on the basketball court this season. A great deal of good material is out and a good team is expected. The candidates have been divided into a light and a heavy squad. The smaller boys are handling the ball much better than their larger teammates and have a much better eye for the basket. Part of this is due to their effort and undivided attention.

The equipment for the boys is expected to arrive in about ten days. The suits will consist of orange jerseys, orange sweat shirts, purple pants, heavy orange socks and heavy basketball shoes.

The boys have nine games scheduled the first being here November 24 with Kermitt High School.

The Junior Class was organized Tuesday morning with Ella Johns in charge of the meeting, and the following officers were elected: Burgess Carter, president; Edythe Norton, vice president; Ella Marie Kinsler, secretary and treasurer. Red and white were selected as the class colors and a committee was appointed to select a motto.

Gladys Haws spent the week-end at her home at Madge.

Herman Hays entered the Freshman class last Tuesday.

Omer George and Virginia Shannon entered the Louisa High School Monday.

The Athenian Literary Society was honored by the presence of Mrs. Godbey, Mrs. Dorsett and Rev. Cheap. The talk given by Rev. Cheap was very interesting and very much appreciated.

The students are looking forward with much interest to the tests which will be given Friday.

The High School Girl's Needs.

(By Ella Johns.)

People in general think of the high school girl as a fortunate girl—a protected girl with a chance for education and development. It is true that she is usually the daughter of well-to-do parents or of those who appreciate the value of education sufficiently to be willing to sacrifice much for her advancement. Yet very few of these parents have any conception of the real needs of the girl during this period of her life—a period, as we all know, of fundamental changes and great emotional instability.

Most parents, though governed by unselfish motives, do the worst possible thing for their high school daughter. They free her from all duties and responsibilities except those pertaining directly to her prescribed course of study. Such a course usually consists of four years of more or less formal English, Latin, Mathematics and modern language, varied by a year or two of text-dominated science or college preparatory history. Such subject matter makes little or no demand upon a girl for artistic or aesthetic experience, nor does it give her any opportunity for the exercises of her creative impulses, which is perhaps the strongest urge of her nature at this time for some inspiring and satisfying outlet.

With the same mistaken idea of her welfare her parents provide for her amusement, exciting "movies" or theater parties—entertainments which she rarely considers complete without an elaborately served luncheon at some fashionable hotel. Often the only other recreation which, to her mind, is worthy of the name, is the evening dancing party, lasting until midnight or after, with its nerve-racking jazz music, its ugly, ungraceful movements and frequently with rich, over-stimulating refreshments. The only preparation which the young hostess is expected to make for such parties is to try on a new and expensive dress or to practice the latest steps in dancing.

Does this picture seem over-drawn? It is not; it is true to life in most of the homes of the many high school girls that I know. Thus the high school girl has forced upon her an existence entirely out of harmony with her needs, as I see them. It is only the unusually gifted girl, under these circumstances, who can be expected to find a purpose for ambition impelling enough to centralize her energies and direct her emotions along constructive lines in music, art or some other form of useful and satisfying activity.

One who has direct experience with girls of this age and who has even a glimmering idea of her needs and possibilities who knows and appreciates her ready response to wholesome stimuli, whenever they are understandingly presented to her, cannot but be indignant with the prevailing wall of adult society; that the high school girl of today is an utterly self-centered, pleasure loving, frivolous creature; that she is restless, irritated by all control and utterly selfish. Whatever truth there may be in the charge is the result of obvious causes, for which the girl herself is in no way responsible. The wonder is, rather, that any girl so unaturally conditioned escapes, with soul alive, from an existence so in opposition to the laws of her nature, so at variance with every principle of wholesome human development and right living.

What the home of today lacks in opportunity for responsibility in the progressive school attempts, in some measure, to supply; but without home co-operation the task seems well-nigh hopeless. Another factor which complicates the situation and renders the problem most difficult for the enlightened high school is the present arbitrary college entrance requirement, which demands of high school graduates a very large amount of standardized information and academic skill rather than evidence of a rich educational experience or any proof of individual power or initiative or records which show that the young student possesses habits, interests and ideals which have made her a useful and influential member of a known high school group and which prove her fitness for further growth and service in the larger, freer and more independent college environment.

As I see it the chief need of every girl at the beginning of a womanhood is wise, sympathetic guidance; is for some one, be it mother or teacher, an older friend, to put clearly before her some of the fundamental knowledge of life and its laws; to point out to her her own relationship to it and her own inspiring and far-reaching responsibilities. You find the normal girl eager to know the "rules of the game" and grateful for help which promises to enable her to play it more intelligently and successfully. The thing which most surely seems to give her poise and emotional balance and also the keenest satisfaction—in some active form of responsibility in her home, school, church or community. She needs something which calls out her best ability and effort, something which she herself considers worth while and which her group values.

Things may have gone so far wrong as many people seem to think, that there is little hope of producing, in the generations, during this present generation, the best type of high school girl. I do not believe that this is necessarily true, largely because of the plastic and impressionable nature of the girl in her teens and because of her natural yearnings for something larger and more ideal than anything in her experience. But, on the other hand, there can be no doubt but that the mistaken judgment and lack of wise direction of parents and teachers have wrought great evil in the habits and attitude of the young people of today, and that only a complete change in the organization of the home and school, both as to duties and privileges, freedom and responsibility can bring about the desired result.

As I see it, our first step in the right direction must be to provide the girl with stimulating incentives, to self-expression; she must acquire real interests and occupy her leisure and arouse her imagination. In addition to athletic fields it is most important that she have access also to a well equipped workshop, to a laboratory and good library, to a garden and kitchen, to a loom and a sewing machine; that she be surrounded by people with vigorous interests and enthusiasm, with mental and spiritual vitality. She should have carefully planned musical and artistic opportunities. It should be considered just as essential that she go to good concerts with someone who loves music, to art studios with an artist and on cross-country hikes with a nature lover as that she could master thoroughly such necessary tools of learning as the three R's under an expert teacher. Surely such experience is fundamental in the formation of good taste and the finer qualities necessary to the young citizen. Why does education so neglect its plain duty?

It seems plain that we should make the environment of girls rich in stimulus to action, in an atmosphere permeated with beauty of all kinds. Appreciation alone is not enough; there must be self-actuated activity and satisfying achievement to make beau-fulfill its function. Yet few homes and schools appear to realize this need. All of these things can be accomplished without loss of happiness to the young people if (and it is a big if) teachers and parents unite and agree. Young people readily respond to the social demands of the whole community. That is the difficulty now, they are aping the customs and bad habits of adult society. If leaders could demonstrate to them that "giving" and not selfish "getting" is law of all happiness you shall achieve your goal.

No parent or teacher has as yet adequate knowledge of all a young girl's needs or of how to accomplish their task; but some of you parents and teachers have had sufficient contact with her and have had your best efforts for us girls rewarded with such inspiring results and encouragement that you can move forward with faith and patience, humility and courage in seeking better and more scientific methods in education to help to support some of the great needs of the high school girl of today.

Flowers—The Gem Of Nature.
Gems of the changing autumn, how beautiful ye are!
Shining from your glossy stems like many a golden star;
Peeping through the long grass, smiling on the dawn.
Lighting up the dusky bank, just where the sun goes down:
Yellow flowers of autumn, how beautiful ye are!
Shining from your glossy stems like many a golden star.
—Thomas Campbell.

—O—

The Autumn Of The Bible.

One wiser than we has said there is something in the fall of the year which is kin to the blood of all of us. It is zest and a clean spirit that are world old and eternally new. Spring may be the renewal of life; autumn is its refreshing.

Turn to the Old Testament and read there all the manifestations of autumn and early winter—the east wind, the breath of the Lord coming up from the wilderness, the clouds, the storm and the rain. The comparisons of the Bible are all with simple things, but none are more effective, none more beautiful, than those which liken the humility of man or the glory of God with the powers of nature.

In the imagery of autumn there is something sombre. Calamity cometh on as a whirlwind, we read, and "I have blotted out as a thick cloud, thy transgressions and as a cloud, thy sins." The rain of fall is not the early rain of spring which covereth the valley of weeping with blessings, but the latter rain which watereth the earth. The dancing of brown leaves in fantastic procession and the whirling dust before the storm bring to nostrils sick with the city's odors, a breath of that sharp, tingling air which makes life glorious and love a lovely thing.

The town in autumn takes on new features and drapes herself in fresh garments. Over her the setting sun throws strange colors and the pavilions of the clouds dark in grandeur. The snap, the keenness of vitality, all above all.

"The spring, like youth, fresh blossoms doth produce,
But autumn makes them ripe, and fit for use."

All Saint's Eve or Hallowe'en will soon be here. All the ghosts, goblins and witches of the past will come forth and mingle with the people of the earth. The mysterious influence of these fictitious creatures cause the superstitious and very young to quake with a fear both pleasurable and excitable. Hallowe'en, as a rule is given over to many entertainments but care should be taken to keep the young things under control, as on this night they often do irreparable damage. Children should have a good time but they should be taught not to wantonly destroy the property of others.

Charity thinketh no evil. With an unwillful ear and sad heart it hears bad news. It glories in no man's downfall—in no one's misfortune. It rather holds down its head and partakes of his shame. It rejoices in the belief that all men are sincere. Where it cannot succor want it will condole.

HAT FOUND 4 YEARS AGO HOLDS $50 BILL

Monroe, N. Y., October 21.—Lewis Schuster announced today that he has just found a fifty dollar bill that for four years he was unaware was in a soldier's hat he picked up during the World war.

During troop movements in 1918 a soldier's hat blew off a troop train passing through Monroe on the Erie railroad. Schuster took it home and laid it aside in case it was ever called for by the owner.

He put the hat on this week and while examining the inside band yesterday, he says, he found a $50 bill tucked in it and also a photograph of a girl. He will preserve the currency carefully and, if he ever learns the identity of the owner, will see that he or his relatives get it.

FARMERS NEWS AND VIEWS.

Grady Sellards, a representative of the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station, gave an unusually interesting address to the farmers of Lick creek community Monday night of this week. His subject was "Killing and Curing Meats" and he explained fully the importance of knowing how to scientifically do this work and prepare a product which is pure and more palatable than the packers' product. He gave the following points as essentials in curing meats properly.

1. Be sure that carcass is thoroughly cooled out before salting as the animal heat will promote spoiling.
2. Trim hams, shoulders and bacon neatly. Fat trimmings should be put into sausage or lard.
3. Bury meat in salt as it is packed in churn or oak barrel.
4. Allow it to cure two days to the pound of meat, e. g. 10 pound ham to cure 20 days, curing day, any day above freezing.
5. Remove salt, wash meat in lukewarm water, hang and let drip 12 hours.
6. Smoke with hard wood hickory preferred, about six days or until amber color.
7. Apply sorghum molasses to meat until all pores are filled.
8. Let hang for several days before making second application of sorghum.
9. Wrap with heavy paper, then with muslin cloth, make insect proof.
10. Hang in dark dry place with hook joints of hams down.

Note:—Pepper may be used with sorghum if desired.

County Agent Baker says now is the time to get poultry houses in condition for winter egg production. A delay in this work may mean the loss of several dollars this winter to the poultry raisers of the county. Since the recent culling demonstrations throughout the county a new interest has developed in poultry growing without a great concentrated effort. A sack of Digester Tankage will balance your poultry rations for the winter and guarantee egg production. 100 pounds will carry the ordinary farm flock through the winter and cost less than four dollars.
